Hot Topics in Parent-Child Contact Problems:
Theoretical Viewpoints, Interventions, Treatment and Challenges for Legal and Mental Health Professionals

This presentation will provide an update and review of the latest issues involving matters in which a child resists or refuses contact with a parent (PCCP). A national perspective of these issues will be discussed as well as the latest perspectives on evaluation and treatment.

This intermediate level program is intended for psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, educators, mental health counselors, marriage and family therapists, graduate students, attorneys, and judges.

Learning Objectives:

1. Attendees will be able to recognize the most appropriate types of evaluations and interventions for PCCP.
2. Attendees will be able to recognize the theoretical issues involved in PCCP as well as concerns encountered in other parts of the country.
3. Attendees will learn how to litigate refuse/resist behaviors exhibited by children in custodial disputes.
4. Attendees will understand how to investigate refuse/resist behaviors exhibited by children in the capacity of a Guardian Ad Litem in custodial disputes.
